Our family matters.

Whether they are the family we were born into, the family we have built out of love and friendship, or both, we believe that family matters.

Our families are our foundation — they help shape who we are and who we become, both as individuals and as a community.

If you’re an LGBT parent or thinking of becoming one, Family Matters, a program of the San Diego LGBT Community Center, is here for you.

Have a Family? Thinking of Building One?

“The Center is here for all of us.”

— Marge Kennedy
Family Matters serves more than 400 LGBT parents and children of all ages each month. Whether you’re a parent or thinking of becoming one, looking for support and information or playgroups and family events throughout San Diego County, Family Matters has something great for you. Family Matters gives children growing up in LGBT families a place to see other families similar to their own. That recognition, along with the support and affirming environment Family Matters offers our families, is vitally important.

To learn more about Family Matters’ events and programs, please contact us at families@thecentersd.org or 619.692.2077 x121, or visit us on Facebook at www.facebook.com/FamilyMatters.SD.

For more information, contact the Family Matters coordinator at 619.692.2077 x121 or families@thecentersd.org.

Family Matters also has an advisory council that meets regularly to help with the programming and planning of educational and social events. If you are interested in joining the Advisory Council, contact us at 619.692.2077 x121 or families@thecentersd.org.

More than 2,000 LGBT parents, prospective parents, relatives, friends and their children benefit from The Center’s broad range of resources, education, support and opportunities available to them each year.

For more information, contact the Family Matters coordinator at 619.692.2077 x121 or families@thecentersd.org.
